I am directed to enclose a copy of the letter from the Government of India cited above. Considering the importance of the occasion when India will be completing here first year as a Republic, the Government are anxious that the occasion should be celebrated in an appropriate manner. I am inquiring whether a parade on the morning of the 26th January 1951 can be arranged at the Island Grounds. I am to add also that His Excellency the Governor will be requested to hoist the National Flag and take the Salute at the March past. The Government propose to ask also the Police to take part in the function to be organised.

In the Districts, a ceremonial parade by the Police is being arranged, at which the Collector will take the salute. As regards Coimbatore, I am to enquire whether it will be possible for the Military units also to take part in the ceremonial parade, and if so, arrangements can be made that the parade will be commanded by a Military Officer, whilst the Police will be asked to take part in the Military Parade.

I am to request the favour of a very early reply in order to enable the Government to see to the arrangements.

Message delivered by His Highness the Maharaja of Mysore on the occasion of the combined Civil / Military Parade held in connection with the Republic Day Celebrations on Friday, the 26th January 1951 at the Sir Jaya Chamarajendra Stadium at 9.0 am.

Citizens, of Bangalore,

Today we are meeting in our various centres throughout the world to celebrate the commencement of the second year of our Republic. This combined Parade which includes so many and such different contingents representative of not only the Armed Forces, but also the Police, and the Civilian organisations is as near a true symbol of our unity in which lies our strength. As Rajpramukh it is my proud privilege to join you all on this great occasion and to give you a message recalling to your mind the significance of this day.

My first duty is to

tribute to the great leaders
Whose enormous sacrifices in blazing the trail
and (Fisher was known
high as Citizen
of the Free Country,
could not have been able to be what we are today, and to the architects and builders of our nation to whose great vision,
hard work and high patriotism
we owe our Republic. We are met here today for the absence of none of them, but their unfaltering
memory, their inspiration
and presence, and their leaders'
example. It is up to us, who are heirs to a noble inheritance,
to ensure that the torch of freedom which was handed to us with the Constitution of power on the 15th August 1947, shall ever remain bright and that its light does not grow dim but will burn ever brighter with the passage of time.

It seems only the other day that we were all gathered in our different centres for the inauguration of the Republic. And yet when we look back over the short interval of one year that has passed it is difficult to credit the-many momentous happenings that have taken place and the great advance that has been made. On
One,

Message delivered by the Governor of Mysore on the occasion of the Constituent Assembly Meeting on 26th January 1950

On the 26th January 1950, We Wrote, as it were, a new page in the history of our Country, embarking on a great new experiment and constituting India into a Sovereign Democratic Republic. ~~[illegible]~~ ~~[illegible]~~ functions are entirely dependent on the successful working of the Constitution which we gave to ourselves on that historic day, on the establishment of an honourable record of service based on the Constitution and on the manner in which we discharge the rights and responsibilities derived from the Constitution, our future entirely depends.

Catastrophic changes are going on in several parts of the world and this is a time of great anxiety all over the world. To adjust the Country's policy to such conditions is no easy task and needs great qualities. Let us submit cheerfully to whatever sacrifice is necessary in support of this policy and put up with the inconveniences occasioned by it. Let us strengthen the hands of our great leaders in their efforts in the cause of peace and freedom.

On this solemn occasion, let us dedicate ourselves anew to fulfil the hopes and objectives of the founders of the Constitution. These, in the matchless words of the Constitution, are, to secure to all the citizens of the Republic —

Justice, social, economic and political;

Liberty of thought, expression, belief, faith and worship;

Equality of status and of opportunity;

and to promote among them all

Fraternity assuring the dignity of the individual and the unity of the Nation.

The task is one which will need the best that is in us. Let us never forget that in all things the Republic must come first, and that, if the Constitution is to be a success, each citizen must feel that his rights are protected and his interests promoted only in so far as they are consistent with the good of the Republic. It behoves every one of us in this way to bend his whole energy to the strengthening of the Republic. May God and only in so far as he is prepared, to an equal extent, to recognise and honour the rights and interests of his fellow citizens.

grant that, ~~as a result of~~ our united efforts, devotion to duty, ~~and~~ high patriotism, our Republic may in the days to come make rapid progress in all directions.

Draft Message delivered by His Highness the Maharaja of Mysore on the occasion of the Combined Civil/Military Parade held in connection with the Republic Day Celebrations on Friday, the 26th January 1951, at the Sri Jayachamarajendra Stadium at 9.0 A.M.

Citizens,

To-day we are meeting in our various Centres throughout the country to celebrate the commencement of the second year of our Republic. This Combined Parade which includes so many and such different contingents representative of not only the Armed Forces and the Police, but also of the Civilian Organisations is at once a symbol of our unity in which lies our strength as also of the need for co-operative action in all our efforts. As Rajpramukh, it is my proud privilege to be with you all on this great occasion and to give you a message recalling to your mind the significance of this day.

My first duty is to pay a humble tribute to the great leaders but for whose enormous sacrifices in blazing the trail we would not have been able ~~to be what we are to-day~~ to hold our heads high as citizens of a Free Country, and to the architects and builders of our Constitution, to whose great vision, hard work and high patriotism we owe our Republic. We are the poorer to-day for the absence of some of them, but their memory, their inspiration and guidance, and their enduring work, remain. It behoves us, who are now heirs to a noble inheritance, to ensure that the torch of freedom which was handed to us with the transfer of power on the 15th August 1947 is held aloft, and that its light does not grow dim but will burn ever brighter with the passage of time.

On the 26th January 1950, we wrote, as it were, a new page in the history of our country, embarking on a great new experiment and constituting India into a Sovereign Democratic Republic. On the successful working of the Constitution which we gave to ourselves on that historic day, on the establishment of an honourable record of service based on the Constitution and on the manner in which we discharge the rights and responsibilities derived from the Constitution, our future entirely depends.

It seems only the other day that we were all gathered in our different centres for the inauguration of the Republic. Some of us may feel that what has been done during the year is not enough. The urge to accomplish more and the need to consolidate and to place the nation on a firm base, should be there of course. But, it should also be realised that one year is but an insignificant period of time in the history of a nation. Even then, in the short interval of one year, many things have been done, and it is by no means an insignificant record.

Strifes fraught with catastrophic possibilities are going on in several parts of the world and this is a time of great anxiety not only to us, but to all right thinking and peaceloving peoples of the world. To adjust the country's policy to such conditions is no easy task, and needs great qualities. It is possible we may have to go through some amount of travail and trouble. Let us hope it would not be necessary. But, should it be inevitable, let us submit cheerfully to whatever sacrifice we are called upon to bear and strengthen the hands of our great leaders in their efforts in the cause of peace and freedom.

On this solemn occasion, let us dedicate ourselves anew to fulfil the hopes and objectives of the founders of the Constitution. These, in the matchless words of the Constitution, are, to secure to all the citizens of the Republic -

Justice, social, economic and pllitical;

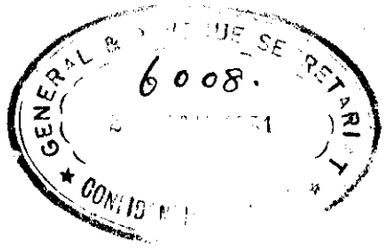
CONFIDENTIAL.



Dear Sri Reddi Garu,

I think on occasions like the Republic Day and other national events, all the officers of Government should participate in the celebrations. It has been sometimes observed that at Flag-hoisting and other ceremonies the attendance of Officers is rather small. If Officers of Government attend such functions and participate in them, it will act as a good example to others, particularly the younger generation, to follow. I shall be grateful if you kindly cause instructions to be issued, drawing the attention of all Government officers to the propriety of their participating in such events. I am making this request to you as the Republic Day celebration is to come off on the 26th instant.

With regards,

Yours sincerely,
T. Narasimha Iyengar.
